

LOCAL EDUCATOR GETS PRAISE FOR HIS WORK

CARBON GUIDE SUGGESTED TO STATE EDUCATORS.

Dr. E. G. Gowans, Commissioner of Education, has received a letter from R. G. Gowans, state superintendent, in which the latter says: "I am very much pleased with the Carbon Guide, issued by your district, and congratulate you and the board of education for the excellence of this booklet. Your outline on physical training is a very splendid guide for your teachers, and the detailed suggestions it contains will work in well with the health program formulated by this department that I am commending it to the superintendents throughout the state. It would be possible for you to supply each superintendent with a copy of the guide, your kindness and assistance would be very much appreciated. I am enclosing herewith a copy of a letter which I am sending to superintendents regarding the guide." Letter of State Superintendent Gowans.

During Superintendent of Schools Owen Ryan this week had a letter from R. G. Gowans, state superintendent, in which the latter says: "I am very much pleased with the Carbon Guide, issued by your district, and congratulate you and the board of education for the excellence of this booklet. Your outline on physical training is a very splendid guide for your teachers, and the detailed suggestions it contains will work in well with the health program formulated by this department that I am commending it to the superintendents throughout the state. It would be possible for you to supply each superintendent with a copy of the guide, your kindness and assistance would be very much appreciated. I am enclosing herewith a copy of a letter which I am sending to superintendents regarding the guide." Letter of State Superintendent Gowans.

"I am pleased to note in the Carbon Guide, issued by the Carbon county district board of education, a splendid outline on physical education prepared by Superintendent Owen Ryan. I should like to recommend this outline to you for the valuable suggestions it contains in connection with the health program formulated in the course of study supplement. The plan of group athletics so carefully worked out by Superintendent Ryan will be especially helpful, because it contains details and directions which will guide teachers in following the state course of study supplement."

Carbon Guide is a book of a hundred pages, and as previously stated by The Sun, represents much thought and work on the part of Carbon county's superintendent. It is gratifying to Superintendent Ryan's friends and members of the local school board to know it is so well received. The Guide came from The Sun Press.

FUNERAL OF ORANGE SEELY AT CASTLE DALE LAST SUNDAY

Funeral services for the late Orange Seely were held last Sunday afternoon on the lawn of the family home at Castle Dale, the influenza quarantine preventing an assemblage indoors. L. P. Oveson, president of the stake, and Bishop Brinkerhoff of Emery were the principal speakers. Interment was at Castle Dale cemetery, the funeral being largely attended considering the circumstances under which it was held. Five brothers and a sister of deceased were present, these being John H. William H. Stewart H. Hyrum and Joseph Seely, and Mrs. M. Oman, all of Mt. Pleasant. All the children and close relatives were in attendance except David Seely, who returned from the East the morning of the funeral. He was unable to attend, however, being ill on his arrival home from influenza. He did not hear of his father's death until he alighted from a train at Provo. Numerous relatives from Wellington and elsewhere in Carbon county were present.

PRESIDENT WILSON PROCLAIMS DAY OF THANKS

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 17.—President Wilson, in a proclamation today, designated Thursday, November 28th, as Thanksgiving Day, and said this year the American people have special and moving cause to be grateful and rejoice. Complete victory, he said, has brought not only peace, but the confident promise of a new day as well, in which "justice shall replace force and jealous intrigue among the nations." The proclamation follows:

THANKSGIVING, 1918. BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, A PROCLAMATION.

It has long been our custom to turn in the autumn of the year in praise and thanksgiving to Almighty God for His many blessings and mercies to us as a nation. This year we have a special and moving cause to be grateful and rejoice. God has in His good pleasure given us peace. It has not come as a mere cessation of arms, a mere relief from the strain and tragedy of war. It has come as a great triumph of right. Complete victory has brought us, not peace alone, but the confident promise of a new day as well, in which justice shall replace force and jealous intrigue among the nations. Our gallant armies have participated in a triumph which is not marred or stained by another purpose of selfish aggression. In a righteous cause they have won immortal glory and have nobly served their nation in serving mankind. God has indeed been gracious. We have cause for such rejoicing as revives and strengthens in us all the best traditions of our national history. A new day shines about us, in which our hearts take new courage and look forward with new hope to new and greater duties.

While we render thanks for these things, let us not forget to see the Divine guidance in the performance of those duties, and Divine mercy and forgiveness for all errors of act or purpose, and pray that in all that we do we shall strengthen the ties of friendship and mutual respect upon which we must build the new structure of peace and good will among the nations.

Wherefore, I, Woodrow Wilson, president of the United States of America, do hereby designate Thursday, the 28th day of November, next, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer, and invite the people throughout the land to cease upon that day from their ordinary occupations and in their several homes and places of worship to render thanks to God, the Ruler of Nations.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed. Done in the District of Columbia this 16th day of November, in the year of Our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and eighteen, and of the independence of the United States of America, the one hundred and forty-third.

By the President, WOODROW WILSON.
ROBERT LANSING, Secretary of State.

As a special Thanksgiving demonstration this year, Gov. Simon Bamberger urges that the people in the various cities, towns and communities of Utah gather together and hold special musical programs, including songs of thanksgiving, victory and home. These gatherings, of course, are dependent upon the influenza situation, but it is hoped and expected that the cause for bans upon gatherings of this sort will have been removed before November 28th.

STORY BOOKS FOR SOLDIERS

Miss Ida H. Tanner Making Collection For Junior Red Cross.

Junior Red Cross chapters will soon receive, if they have not already in many instances, Production Order No. 104, which is a large quantity of story books for the use of soldiers in the hospitals overseas. The books are in the form of a light paper cover, including one short story, with a few jokes and amusing pictures pasted on the inside of the covers. Bound in this way, the books weigh practically nothing and are easily handled by the sick and wounded. They are more appreciated than the magazines themselves, not only because they are less bulky, but because they show thoughtful effort on the part of the makers here at home.

Examples of this book will be sent to each chapter and the chapter is requested to make other samples to furnish to branches or auxiliaries. It is, of course, not necessary that the books all be identical, but each should contain one short story, in the selection of which considerable judgment should be used, choosing only those which will be of interest to the boys, avoiding too frivolous selections, but at the same time remembering that they are intended for relaxation rather than education. The soldiers appreciate live articles on current topics as well as fiction.

To take charge of this order, it is suggested that each chapter appoint a special committee, who shall select or censor the materials used, before the books are made. In any event, the completed books should be passed upon from the standpoint of workmanship and material used. It should, of course, be emphasized that the jokes should be entirely free from vulgarity.

The code number of this book is J-119, the "J" indicating that this is an activity which is particularly suitable for Juniors, who should be able to do all of the actual work when once the material is selected and who will welcome this opportunity to contribute to the happiness of the soldiers who have suffered in the service of our country.

It is greatly hoped that every chapter will help to make this order a splendid success. If anyone in Price has old magazines or pictures or books to give to this most worthy cause they will please notify Miss Ida H. Tanner, secretary of the local Juniors, who will call for the same.

PERSONAL REPLY COMES TO GOVERNOR FROM PRESIDENT

In response to a message of congratulation sent to President Wilson upon the signing of the armistice terms, Gov. Simon Bamberger has received a personal reply from the national executive. In the telegram President Wilson incorporated a personal message to the people of the state, conveying his thanks for the hearty support which Utah has given the administration and the loyalty of their response to every request of the nation. The message in full reads:

"Your message of the eleventh is deeply and sincerely appreciated, and I hope you will say to the people of Utah how proud I have been to represent them in these months of strenuous co-operation that have gone by, and how sincerely I rejoice with them in the conclusion of hostilities and the confident hope of peace.—Woodrow Wilson."

MARSHALING OF MANY FORCES

War By Government On Prostitution and Liquor As Well.

Marshaling of many forces against the liquor and social evils has been set on foot by federal authorities. Secretary Newton D. Baker, of the war department, has wired to all governors of states on the matter. Governor H. C. Clark, secretary of the council of national defense, wired to all state health service called the attention of the state health commissioners to the campaign. State councils of defense and state health officers are asked to communicate with their respective governors on the campaign plan. The governor is requested to pass the message from Secretary Baker along to the mayors of cities and other officials. The local health officers' attention is to be directed to the fight by the state health commissioners. The state council of defense is to urge the county and the community councils of defense to back the local public safety and health officials in their activities against these enemies to the American soldier.

"Signing of the armistice," says Secretary Baker's wire, which was transmitted to the mayors of the cities of Utah last Saturday, "in no way lessens the responsibility of the civil community for the protection of soldiers from prostitution and the sale of liquor. All states and cities ought never to leave the control which has been established or stop so vital a work. The government proposes to leave no measures unused in continued repression of prostitution and sale of liquor from now until such time as demobilization is fully accomplished. The war department is fully determined to return soldiers to their families and to civil life uncontaminated by disease. Reports of laxity from your state would be a disaster to our soldiers and their families."

Gov. Simon Bamberger says that he does not consider there is a serious menace in Utah, for the reason that the statewide prohibition law is being enforced throughout the state, whether in the neighborhood of places where soldiers are mobilized or in training of elsewhere.

Representatives of the organization of automobile dealers of Salt Lake City met a few days ago at the request of Gordon Benson, secretary of state, in the latter's office, and went over some proposed changes in the motor vehicle law of Utah for presentation to the next legislature. One of the most serious points discussed was what to do to reduce the number of automobile thefts, and it was a consensus of opinion that the state law ought to be made more strict in this matter. The dealers will take up questions proposed by Benson at a future meeting, and will report to him any recommendations that they deem desirable.

CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY

Do not imagine that because other cough medicines failed to give you relief that it will be the same with Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Bear in mind that from a small beginning this remedy has gained a world wide reputation and immense sale. A medicine must have exceptional merit to win esteem wherever it becomes known.—Advt.

Some people would not want to be happy if every one else was.

Adding Hours For Work To the Busy Man's Day

We are greatly limited in the number of cars we receive at this time, because of the extreme curtailment of production at the big factories where war work has taxed the greater portion of the capacity. But there are some being built and we get a portion of them.

It is well that some production of dependable automobiles continues. For the automobile has, most distinctly, its place of service in the lives of busy, producing, helping Americans—in the life, in the very existence of our nation. Instant, quick, time-saving transportation! And time is victory.

Men and women who have work to do, many places to go, many people to see, will demand the utmost of their motor car. And they will not spend wastefully to get the motor car dependability which they demand.

Oaklands, Willys-Knights and Overlands, all famous for their marvelous motors and the sturdy strength of chassis, offer men and women just the car they want and either of which gives just the car that serves. Power, life, quiet flexibility, dependability, economy of operation. And, at a fair price, involving not a bit of wastefulness—not a suggestion of extravagance.

What Determines Meat and Live-Stock Prices?

Some stock men still think that Swift & Company—and other big packers—can pay as little for live-stock as they wish.

Some consumers are still led to believe that the packers can charge as much for dressed meat as they wish.

This is not true. These prices are fixed by a law of human nature as old as human nature itself—the law of supply and demand.

When more people want meat than there is meat to be had, the scramble along the line to get it for them sends prices up. When there is more meat than there are people who want it, the scramble all along the line to get rid of it within a few days, while it is still fresh, sends prices down.

When prices of meat go up, Swift & Company not only can pay the producer more, but has to pay him more, or some other packer will.

Similarly, when prices recede all down the line Swift & Company cannot continue to pay the producer the same prices as before, and still remain in the packing business.

All the packer can do is to keep the expense of turning stock into meat at a minimum, so that the consumer can get as much as possible for his money, and the producer as much as possible for his live-stock.

Thanks to its splendid plants, modern methods, branch houses, car routes, fleet of refrigerator cars, experience and organization, Swift & Company is able to pay for live cattle 90 per cent of what it receives for beef and by-products, and to cover expense of production and distribution, as well as its profit (a small fraction of a cent per pound), out of the other 10 per cent.
